

ARISTA ACADEMIC FOOTBALL CLINIC

This clinic is specifically tailored to boys entering the 10th, 11th and 12th grade in September of 2011 and their parents. The mission of the one day workout is to provide top level student athletes a venue to showcase their football talents. The camp's goal is to provide the best student athletes an opportunity to be seen and instructed by coaches from the finest academic institutions in the country. In addition, a seminar will be given for the parents and coaches of these boys who seek information on how the recruiting process works in regard to the Ivy League, Patriot League and New England Small College Athletic Association (NESCAC). The boys will be taught skills and drills by coaches from these leagues in a two hour on the field practice session.

Coaches from the following schools will instruct at this camp.

Princeton University Cornell University Williams College Trinity College University of Pennsylvania
Hamilton College Rutgers University Temple University Columbia University Lafayette College
Bryant University Wesleyan University Hobart College Bucknell University Holy Cross College
Tufts University Dartmouth College

Camp Director – Coach Dino Mangiero has been a player/coach for the past 40 years. He was an All-American at Rutgers University and played in the NFL for the Kansas City Chiefs and Seattle Seahawks. He has coached at all levels of college football (including The Big Ten Conference) and is currently the Head Coach at Poly Prep Country Day School and has been for 11 seasons. He has prepared more than fifty high school boys to play football at the nation's premier Colleges and Universities.

“Coach Mangiero and the Arista Football Clinic teach the highest level of football skills and techniques. You won't find a camp in the New York City area that will better prepare you for college football. Coach David Archer, Cornell University

“Coach Mangiero and Poly Prep prepared me to be a captain at the University of Notre Dame and currently as a member of the Denver Broncos”. Eric Olsen, Denver Broncos

“Academic clinics like Arista helped me get discovered, I am proud to be attending Williams College to play football”.
